WHO WE ARE

The African Placenta Research Network (APRN) is a collaborative digital platform connecting researchers, clinicians and healthcare workers across Africa who share a commitment to placental research.

WHAT WE DO

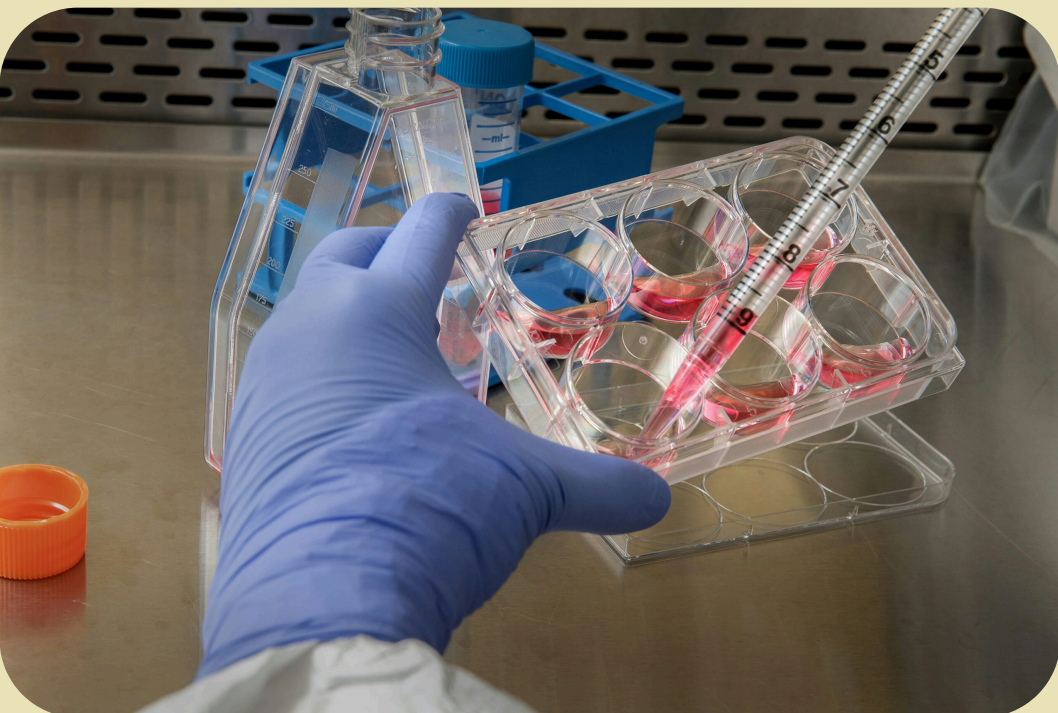

Research Network

A directory of placental research laboratories across Africa, including a brief description of their research focus, projects, techniques, and areas of expertise.

Knowledge Hub

A range of resources related to placental health, including our newsletter which highlights research updates, best practices, and upcoming events. Explore shared methods and featured publications.

From Bench to Bedside

Exploring how placental research advances maternal-child health in Africa. Discover how molecular and cellular insights could transform healthcare practices and improve outcomes across the continent.
